The model plane is crushed while flying, and one wing of the plane touches the ground, while the other wing is still in midair. The two wings of the plane are broken by the ice which is frozen by the coldness of the air. The wing cracked at the bottom-left corner, and has got a crack on it. It is broken because of the weight of the plane, and the air which is frozen by the coldness..... At first, when the Model Plane is released, it is released with a big speed and with a big force. The force is enough to break the plane, but the speed of the plane is too high to break the plane. The speed of the plane is so high, the air is frozen, and the ice becomes harder. And when the small crack occurs on the ice, it makes the plane broken. . 1990 Â· Cited by 25 â€” vii.. COMMONWEALTH of Kentucky, Appellee. Supreme Court of Kentucky. March 22, 1979. *468 Michael Clark, pro se. Robert F. Stephens, Atty. Gen., Michael L. Harned, Asst. Atty. Gen., Frankfort, for appellee. VANCE, Justice. The defendant was charged with the offense of possession of marijuana. He filed a motion to suppress evidence obtained by a search of his home by police officers. Following a hearing, the trial court entered an order denying the motion. A joint prosecution was then had against the defendant with two other persons and the defendant was convicted. The Court of Appeals affirmed the conviction.

We granted the defendant's motion to transfer the case to this court for review. The defendant asserts that the trial court erred in denying his motion to suppress. Michael Clark testified that one of the officers, Officer Wayne McNagny, came to his house during the middle of the afternoon on July 25, 1976. The officer asked to talk with him. When Clark answered the door the officer told him that he was investigating an alleged assault at Larry Dixon's apartment. Clark was not charged with assault at that time. Clark asked the officer if he could look in his closet to see if he had any clothes and the officer went to check for any signs of such an assault. The officer did not tell him what he was looking for or why he was looking for anything. In one of the drawers the officer found a small marijuana cigarette. Clark then asked the officer if he had a search warrant and 50b96ab0b6
